As I recently tweeted (@chucknorris), I read through the book “The Miracle of Freedom: Seven Tipping Points that Saved the World,” by Chris and Ted Stewart. I highly recommend it.

Immediately afterward, I started reading their other book, “Seven Miracles That Saved America,” and I have been equally inspired by it.

The creation of America was truly a miracle, and it is difficult to take a deep look at our history, like the Steward's have done, and not see the many miracles God has bestowed on our great country. I was also bothered by the overly broad statements such as (after the 1942 Battle of Midway) "Although the War in the Pacific was to last three more brutal years, the outcome was.

 It does take for granted that our western values of freedom, equality, reason & rule of law, are the right ones, and that Christianity played a large part in the development of those values. [101] The apparitions listed here also lack approval for any related public cultus, such as public veneration or pilgrimages. In the history of mankind there has never been a country like ours. <br ...
